A Good Indian. One of the Indians who accompanies the party now visiting Philadelphia has illustrated in his life all the virtues that Cooper ascribes to his red heroes. His career, as described by veracious modern writers, is in the highest degree creditable, and, as he is a Delaware, belonging to the reunant of the aborigines of Pennsylvania, a deep interest in his behalf should be felt in this community. We refer to Black Beaver, who has been so fully described in Captain Marcy's works illustrating army life on the plains, that he is one of the best drawn Indians in American history. He always figures as the faithful friend of the white race. He has served a large proportion of the perilous military expeditions on the plains as a guide, interpreter and scout; and his knowledge and skill as a frontiersman are only excelled by his bravery and staunch fidelity. In modern councils with the southern Indians, Black Beaver is nearly indispensable as an aid and adviser. During the council held in the Indian territory last summer he was dispatched on the dangerous and difficult errand of intercepting a war party of Comanches and Kiowas for the purpose of bringing them before the commissioners, so that they might smoke the pipe of peace. It is also said that at the outbreak of the rebellion he piloted a body of loyal United States troops from Texas northward through a country occupied by Indians who sympathized with the rebellion, at great personal risk to himself, as well as pecuniary loss, inasmuch as his possessions in the Indian territory were confiscated as a punishment for his loyalty. Other accounts describe him as a successful farmer, cultivating several hundred acres of coru during the present year, and gradually making additions to a stock of cattle. His speech, delivered in English, at the sanitarium at Media, on Sunday last, is in keeping with the descriptions of his character. Referring to the Delawares, who have for many years maintained unbroken friendship with the whites, even while they have been driven further and further from their old homes, he said: "My people are good and civilized Indians, and willing to do right and have no more trouble with the white man. We know how to make coru bread, but we have only a few tools, and must borrow them from each other, and we want more help to get along. On this trip the white people treated us well, and I was told that we would get help. The other chiefs of other tribes would not believe me when I told them in our country, but they came with us to see the great father and see for themselves, and they are now satisfied." We hope that this reasonable and sensible request will elicit a generous response. If any set of Indians deserve help it is the Delawares, for, at various periods, they have been most outrageously treated by the whites, and, while Black Beaver is probably the most useful and most distinguished of their living braves, other Delawares have intimated his example in rendering essential service to the American people. Notices in our current exchanges refer to steps recently taken for the amelioration of the conditions of reumants of the aborigines of Connecticut, New York, Virginia and North Carolina, who are still residing within the boundaries of those states, and we trust that Pennsylvanians will not be wanting in liberality to the Delawares since so famous and faithful a representative of their tribe, while making a visit to

to his modest appeal for help.-Phil. Record. WOMEN SEARCHED FOR SMUGGLED GOODS. It is a fact probably, better known to customhouse officials than to outsiders, that at least every tenth women who crosses the Detriot river carries smuggled goods. The goods may be tea, coffee, socks, thread, ribbons, or something else of great value, but the intent to smuggle is there, and the success in bringing over a small lot is nearly always an inducement for the smuggler to try the game on a larger scale. Men may and do smuggle clothing now and then, but it is the female sex which carries the burden of guilt. The custom-house officials at the ferry dock in this city are as vigilant as officers can be, but what chance have they against monster hoop-skirts and gigantic bustles? They cannot stoop to peep under shawls, examine pockets, look into baby-carts, and hold a crowd on the boat, and so they must continue their work with the knowledge that goods are being smuggled, and that only one grand and certain haul of their nets can trap the guilty and frighten the innocent so that they shall never dare to pursue the business.

the home of his ancestors, has giving utterance

The net was drawn yesterday. The officers commenced about 2 o'clock, walking fifteen or twenty women up stairs into the customrooms, and handing them over to a woman to be searched. Every boat load which landed for about three hours was treated in the same manner-that is, all the female portion. Some were indignant, and appealed to their husbands, who vainly appealed to the customs officers. Others wanted to faint away, but, after looking at the planks and the dust, concluded not to. Others wept, laughed, or turned pale, but none of them were permitted to escape. During the afternoon about one hundred and fifty women confronted by Uncle Sam, and the old man had a good deal of fun and made some wonderful discoveries.

For instance, a modest little woman, who was in a great hurry to go home to her sick child, pulled out a few pins, and ten yards of English flannel fell to the floor. A tall woman, with tears in her eyes, who asserted that she would sooner chop her head off than to think of smuggling, unfastened a pound of tea from her skeleton, and asserted that it must have been placed there by some designing person. Another one indignantly denied "the right of search," but after remaining a prisoner for an hour on two told the searcher to "to take it and go to grass," throwing a package of ribbons and laces on the floor. A lot of calico was found on another, some velvet on another, and at least ten per cent. of the whole number were found to be engaged in smuggling. The offi-cials were satisfied with confiscating the goods, and it is said that women who land from Canada during the day to-day will be marched up stairs and turned over to the care of the grim female, who heeds no threat and melts at no sigh. - Detroit Free Press Oct. 22.

cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and inelancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz:
Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symtoms of Consump-

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE. When the misguided and imprudent votary opleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds o this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery de ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery de ters him from applying to those who, from edu cation and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the gressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease be-iall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no traveller returns."

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRETENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy suf and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy suf ferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness in despair leaves him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment.
